"I doesn't assent to dance wulgaracious dances ob that sort, Mr. Cassins," said Miss Josephina, turning up still higher her wellrounded upper lip-turning it up till it fairly tickled her nose; "I dances only the Porker!"

"Wal, Miss Josephina, said Cassius, "you is a peg above dis nigger's notch dere; I doesn't know the Porker mysef, less it be what we calls the Pig's Jig."

"But, Miss Roxana," said Cassius, addressing another Ethiopian of the female sex, "p'raps you'd go through a Werginny reel wid me just for emerald vegetables?" "No, Mr. Cassius," said the romanticminded Roxana; "I dances nuffin now but de Missouri." "De what?" asked Cassius, opening still wider his globular optics.

"De Missouri, Mr. Cassius, ob course," repeated Roxana, emphatically.

"Den you dances the Missouri, does you?" said Cassius. "Well, I drinks the Mississipper, so I tinks you ain't far ahead ob dis chile dere. But I sees how it is wid you and Miss Josephina: you goes in for buildin' up the modern definement of nigger society, but I goes in for the old-fashioned breakdown. Nigger," said be, addressing the old banjo player, " gin us Natchez under the Hill, and I goes it alone." And alone he went it with a perfect looseness.

What the War has Done. A St. Louis paper in discoursing upon this topic, asks: What do we see here in St. Louis? A complete blockade of all trade, not for any crime committed by us -- not for anything the people of Illinois, or Iowa, or Missouri, or Kansas, or Minnesota, may bave done disloyal to the Union-but a blockade which punishes us, under the foolish and ridiculous idea, that lit may do some harm to the revolting States. All trade is at an end; and as a consequence the products of the farm are no longer of value, and with the immense crop which God, more mindful of us than we have been of ourselves, has given us, we are almost doomed to see it rot in the fields for the want of means to garner it, or of a market, after it has been saved. What man is there, in either of our neighboring States, who can hope to get fifty cents for his wheat, or ten cents a bushel for his corn, or like value for the products of his farm? How are they to pay onerous debts contracted in more prosperous times, with such prices as the reward of their labor? But the calamity is not confined to the farmer. They are likely to suffer most intensely, but still they frog in his ear." have at command meat and bread, and the necessaries of life, for they raise them alf. They may not starve. But it is far different for dullness is to keep busy. with those who live in cities and towns, and who depend upon their daily labor for the support of themselves and families. What has become of the great steamboat interest, once our boast and main reliance, and which, with a capital of many millions of dollars, gave employment directly and indirectly, to a fifth of the population of St. Louis? Gone.

BEAUTIFUL PLLUSTRATION .- A florist will tell you that if you paint the flower-pot that contains a favorite, beautiful, fragrant flower gencer writing from Florida, gives an incithe plant will wither, and perhaps its blos- dent in relation to a prayer offered by resom will die. PAINFUL, BUT LAUGHABLE .-- In "Notes of an Army Surgeon" we find the following: I remember, one day, in making my hospital rounds, a patient just arrived, presented an amputated forearm, and in doing so he could hardly restrain a broad laugh; the titter was constantly on his face. "What is the matter? This does not strike me as a subject of laughter."

"It is not, doctor; but excuse me: I lost my arm in so funny a way, that I still laugh when I look at it."

I AM VERY FOND OF WATER,

I'm very fond of water, I drink it noon and night, Not Rechab's son or daughter Hath therein more delight.

I breakfast on it daily, And nectar it doth seem. When once I've fixed it gaily With sugar and with cream. But I forgot to mention That in it first I see, Infused with some attention. Good Mocha or Bohea.

CHCBUS-I'm very fond of water. I drink it noon and night. No mother's son or daughter Hath therein more delight.

At luncheon, too, I drink it, And strength it seems to bring, When really good, I think it A liquor for a king. But I forgot to mention-'Tis best to be sincere -I use an old invention

That makes it into beer.

CHORUS-I'm very fond of water, &c. I drink it, too, at dinner; I quaff it full and free, And find, as I'm a sinner, It does not disagree. But I forgot to mention And thus I drink and dine,

To save all apprehension, I join some Sherry wine. CHORUS-I'm very fond of water, &c.

And then, when dinner's over, And business far away, I feel myself in clover, And sip my eau sucree. But I forgot to mention, I love to add a smack, To obviate distention, Of Whiskey or Cognac. CHORUS-I'm very fond of water, &c.

At last, when evening closes, With something nice to eat, The best of sleeping doses In water still I meet. But I forgot to mention, I think it not a sin, To cheer the day's declension

By pouring in the gin. CHORCS-I'm very fond of water, It ever must delight, Each mother's son and daughter When qualified aright.
